Re: Robert Taylor Memorial Symposium: Applied Reproductive Strategies in Beef Cattle, Dec. 2 -3, 2008, Hilton Hotel, Fort Collins, CO

The Beef Reproduction Task Force in cooperation with Colorado State University is coordinating an Applied Reproductive Strategies in Beef Cattle Symposium, Dec. 2-3, 2008 in Fort Collins, CO. We will be hosting an Industry Trade Show during the symposium and invite you to participate in this sponsorship opportunity.

Sponsorship is available at four levels: Diamond, $5000; Platinum Level, $2500; Gold, $1000; and Silver, $500. Sponsorship provides your organization with booth space and one or more registrations (see form). All levels of sponsorship allow for your business to be listed on the Applied Reproductive Strategies in Beef Cattle web site and in the proceedings distributed to each participant.

The symposium is designed for veterinarians, producers, professional breeders and clients interested in improving their understanding of the bovine estrous cycle, currently available procedures for synchronizing estrus and/or ovulation for breeding programs, methods for assessing female and male fertility relative to the success of AI programs, as well as new technologies related to pregnancy diagnosis, ET and semen sexing. The program features a long list of nationally known speakers from across the U.S.
